Overview

Chris' civil litigation practice concentrates on defending insurance coverage and professional liability defense where he uses his courtroom experience to zealously advocate for the interests of his clients.

Prior to joining Peabody & Arnold, Chris practiced at Boyle | Shaughnessy, P.C., where he litigated construction defect, products liability, and personal injury matters in Massachusetts.

Chris also previously served as a contractor law clerk with the Office of the United States Attorney for the District of Massachusetts in the Asset Forfeiture Unit, where he worked on criminal and civil forfeiture matters alongside Assistant United States Attorneys and federal agencies.

Chris received his Juris Doctor, magna cum laude, from Albany Law School of Union University. During law school, Chris served as an Article Editor for the Albany Law Journal of Science and Technology. He also served as a judicial intern in the chambers of an Associate Justice with the State of New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division Third Judicial Department, a full-year legal intern with the Office of the United States Attorney for the Northern District of New York, and as a teaching fellow for first year Constitutional Law and Criminal Law students.
